Adam Lewis focuses his legal practice on all aspects of commercial real estate transactions, advising his clients on the acquisition, disposition, financing, development, and leasing of all types of commercial property.

Adam counsels real estate owners, lenders, and developers on a broad array of projects, including retail and shopping centers, hotels and restaurants, golf courses and other resort-related developments, office and medical office buildings, industrial properties, retirement communities, and vacant land. He also assists clients with a wide variety of matters related to commercial lending, title insurance, mineral rights, and the development of solar and renewable energy projects.

An experienced and creative problem solver, Adam regularly handles complex contract, purchase and sale, and lease negotiations, as well as the negotiation and structuring of credit facilities. Adam also routinely handles the review of complex title matters and title insurance matters to create workable solutions for his clients.

Before joining Lowndes, in addition to earning his J.D. from the University of North Carolina, Adam received his LL.M. in EU and International Business Law and has assisted international investors and parties with their real estate transactions.
