Lowndes is pleased to announce that Shawn M. Trautman has joined the firm as Of Counsel in the Orlando office. Trautman is a seasoned construction law attorney whose practice focuses on representing a diverse range of clients, including property owners, developers, contractors, design professionals, and subcontractors. His comprehensive practice encompasses every stage of litigation, from initial intake to discovery, mediation, and trial.

"We're excited to welcome Shawn Trautman to the team," said construction attorney Michael Gibbons. "His extensive experience in construction litigation, particularly in handling complex defect disputes, further enhances our ability to provide top-tier legal services to our clients."

Beyond his expertise in construction law, Trautman provides invaluable counsel to small businesses and government entities on contractual matters, dispute resolution, procurement, and related issues. His adeptness also extends to real estate litigation, community association law, and resolving commercial leasing disputes.

Committed to community service, Trautman has been recognized twice with the Outstanding Pro Bono Service Award for his significant volunteer contributions.
